

Ronald Johnson
Kentucky Arts Council Board
Fort Mitchell, Ky.

Ron Johnson is a partner and practicing attorney at the law firm of Schachter & Hendy, PSC in Fort Wright, Ky. The firm focuses on litigation of complex civil cases, including product liability, medical device and healthcare litigation.

Ron graduated from Rhodes College in Memphis, Tenn., in 1994 with a degree in International Studies. He returned to his home state of Kentucky to attend law school at the Brandeis School of Law at the University of Louisville where he served as editor of the Law Review and graduated in 1999. Ron practiced law in Louisville, Ky. for six years before relocating to Northern Kentucky. He maintains an active, state-wide practice. Ron is a member of the Kentucky Bar Association, the Louisville Bar Association, the Northern Kentucky Bar Association, the Cincinnati Bar Association and the American Association of Justice. He is a member of the board of governors for the Kentucky Justice Association, and he has served on both the Louis D. Brandeis and Salmon P. Chase American Inns of Court. While in Louisville, Ron was a member of the attorney steering committee for Citizens for Better Judges.

Ron has been a long time supporter and ardent fan of the arts in Kentucky, in particular Actors Theatre of Louisville and the Carnegie Visual and Performing Arts Center in Covington, Ky., where his wife serves on the board of directors. Ron is very pleased to be giving back to the arts community in Kentucky by serving on the board of the Kentucky Arts Council.
